biamed, or how the evil can be amended. They are in a mood to be angry with everything and everybody. They rail at the Peelites as the main cause of the mischief; they rail at the liberals who have stuck by them, for lending them countenance; they rail at Lord John Russell, both for adhering so long to his ex-colleagues and for leaving them. It is easy to say that all this is very unreasonable; it is not the less dangerous on that account. But it is not altogether unreasonable. It is the natural temper of a nation auddenly awakened to the consciousness that those whom it trusted with the conduct of its affairs have led it into a position of extreme peril, and unable at the moment to discover any means of extricating itself from the danger. It is exactly the mood in which a people we in danger of being butraved into rash and destructive courses, unless it can find clear sighted and fearless leaders.

THE BATTLE OF BUNDER ABBAS.

The correspondent of the London Times, writing from Bombay on the 16th of January, says:—I have aiready alluded to the probability of Persia becoming the paramount power in Affighantistan on the death of Dost Mahomed, and there are two other directions besides Cardahar in which she is repidly extending her frontier.

A battle has been fought at Bunder Abbas between the Araba and the Persians, in which the latter were successful. A Persian force of 12,000 horsemen, with six guns and two mortars, appeared before Bunder Abbas in the beginning of December, and shelled the place for two days and nights; on the third day the garrison, consisting of 1,700 men, met the Persians at the gates, and an engagement took place, which lasted for several nours. The Arab force, overpowered by numbers, took to their boats and field to the man-of-war belonging to the Imaum of Museat. The Arabs lost in killed and wounded about 1,400, while the Persians lost about 4,000. The Arabs were commanded by the eldest son of the Imaum. He is determined to havard another hattle before giving up Bunder Abbas to the Persians. The Imaum is said to be mustering a large force, which is will command in person; so that we may shortly expect to hear of another engagement.

The ownership of Bander Abbas cannot at all affect British interests, but with the probability before us of the Shah becoming the paramount power along the whole extent of our Indus frontier, from Mekrau to Peshawur, it is unquestionably our policy to do all in our power to prevent Resisian indusence from becoming parashawur, it is unquestionably our policy to do all in our power to prevent Russian induence from becoming paramount in Peria, for it the Russians were established in Turkistan, Persia would be merely a Russian satrapy.

Sir Charles Napier and Admiral Berkeley.

MERCHSTOUS HALL, Horndean, Feb. 11.

Sir:—I have been very much surprised at Admiral Berkelel's reply to your question.

I do not intend to bandy words with the gallant Admiral, but I beg to tell you, when the papers—which I hope will be asked for—are produced, it will be seen that I was goaded to act contrary to my own judgment—that I was censured—and finally dismissed my command.

I have the honor to remain, Sir, your obelient servant,—Craufurd, Esq., M. P. CHARLES NAPIER.

THE SARDINIAN CONTINGENT FOR THE WAR-PROBA-BLE DATE OF ITS MARCH—THE POPE'S MONITORIO
—ITS EFFECTS ON THE PEOPLE—A PAPAL LOAN—

COUNT CAVOUR'S SPEECH.

Turia (Feb. 5) Correspondence of London Times]
It is not probable that the Sardinian contingent will embark for the seat of war before the middle, or perhaps end of next month, but General La Marmora, who is to command it, will proceed to Faris and London imnediately after the treaty has been ratified, to take counsel with the military authorities there as to the measures most advisable with regard to its destination, the amount of particular arms, and other minor details. According to the terms of the convention, it will amount to 15,000 men. No positive distribution of this force has yet been made, nor can it be, until the peculiar circumstances of where and with what troops it is to act have been definitively arranged; but it may be supposed may see been made, nor can it be, unto the peculiar circumstances of where and with what troops it is to act have been definitively arranged; but it may be supposed there will be 10,000 or 12,000 infantry, from 1,000 to 2,000 cavalry, about 600 artillerymen, a company or two of sappers and minners, if required, and a strong force of wagon train and ambulance corps, which they possess in a very efficient state.

The Pope's monitorio has not yet obtained so much notice as it deserves, which is eniefly to be accounted for by the pre-occupation of the public mind on other matters. The King, however, is said to feel accutely the wast of consideration towards himself in publishing such a document in his kingdom at the moment when he was oppressed by heavy domestic afflictions; and the government has given instructions to all magistrates and law officers of the grown that they are to take no tice of the reading from the public or preaching on the monstorio, as bringing priests within the meaning of the act passed last session for the modification of the penal code.

A new loan from the bouse of Rothachild is said to monitorio, as bringing priests within the meaning of the act passed last session for the modification of the penal code.

A new loan from the house of Rothschild is said to have been contracted by the Romangovernment for that apparently unuttainable object, the withdrawing of the paper currency. It is certain that firm has advanced money to the "Eanca Pontifica." It may be inferred from this that the electry ladies of Belgium, who graspso eagerly and devoutly at Roman "coupens," are equaly anxious to support the credit of the Pontifical Bank, and that the great Hebrew, finding such to be the case, has, as usual, disinterstedly allowed them to have all that was at his disposal.

The discussion on the treaty of alliance between Sardinia and the Western Powers terminated by the adoption of the treaty, by 101 votes against 60.

Count Cavour, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, made a very remarkable speech on the 6th of February. He stated that towards the end of November, instructions were sent to Mr. Hudson, the English Eavoy at Turin, by the English government, to sound the Sardinian government as to whether it would adhere to the treaty of the 10th of April, or place a body of troops at its disposal. By some accident these instructions were delayed on the road, having gone first to Marseilles, then to other parts of Italy, and did not reach Turin till the 12th of December. At the same time official despatches were received from the governments of England and France, instructing their respective ambassadors formally to invite the King of Sardinia to adhere to the treaty. The government replied that it never would have consented to place a body of troops at the disposal of England, but that it was inclined to treat for adhering to the treaty of April. This led to the military and financial convention actually urder discussion.

The following is from a correspondent:—

"When the Times the other day cast such solemn discredit on the possibility of any person, such as the M. Wikoff, of its 'Nichoff' mystery, having figured as a contributor to any journal of repute, such protest can only have been registered on the writer's own short memory. In 1849-50 this person was an avowed and frequent contributor to La Fresse in Faris; and in a number of the Spectator of January. 1840, will be found an ber of the Spectator of January, 1880, will be found an elaborate English panegyric on the Wikoff letters there printed. In Austria warlike preparations continue with unabated energy, and briefly all Europe is in arms.

All five Powers have formally signified their intection to confer. The Congress has been postponed from the 16th to meet again at Vienns on the 26th. Lord John Russell represents Great Britain; M. De Douquelley, or perhaps a special Minister, France; Count Buol, Austria; Riza Rey, Turkey.

Count Wedell, the Prussian Envoy to France, remains in Paris, his mission being unaccomplished. His secretary has returned to Berlin for further instructions. The opinion prevalls that no terms can be come to between Prussia and the Western Powers, but that Frussia will be left to neutrality and its consequences.

MOVEMENTS OF RUSSIA.

The Emperor Nicholas has issued an ukase calling the whole population of Russia to arms. This is remarked as a menace in reply to the appointment of Lord Palmerston as bead of the English government.

It was announced by the last steamer that the Russian troops on the Austrian frontier were suddenly ordered to retire into the interior. This movement is explained either as a political move in support of Russia's assertions that Austria is not menaced, or as a strategic move to take up a stronger position. In either case it is unimportant.

ACCESSIONS OF THE ALLIES.

ACCESSIONS OF THE ALLIES.

An important statement is made that Naples has joined the Western alliance, and will send, besides a fleet, a land force equal to that of Sardinia, to the Crimea. The guarantee of France to prevent a revolution in Italy has brought Naples to join the alliance.

The Belgian journals amounce that Tuscany, Parma and Modena have joined the Western alliance, with one thousand men each. This is probably meant as ironical. It is rumored that Spain will likewise join the alliance, with the view to have the inflaence of the French against any insurrection that may take place. It is also reported that Portugal will join it with 12,000 men, This is rather doubtful, however. All that can be said is that the Western Powers are seeking to unite all the recondary States in a general European league against Russia, and that they are making steady progress towards that end.

Committee of the Whole, on the bill to increase the capital stock of the Manhattan Gas Company.

Mr. O'KEEFE—Mr Speaker, I hope this motion will not prevail. The bill is the most infamous that has been brought before this Legislature.

Mr. PHTY—I call the gentleman to order.

Mr. O'KEEFE—In saying this I do not mean to reflect upon any of the New York members who have introduced and advocated the measure. But I do say that it is of vital interest to the citizens of New York—that it affects the very life's blood of their prosperity, and should not be acted upon in indecent haste.

of vital interest to the citizens of New York—that it affects the very life's blood of their prosperity, and should not be acted upon in indecent haste.

The SPRAKEE—The gentleman from New York is out of order; the motion is not debateable.

Mr. O'KEPPE—Then I move to lay the motion on the table.

Lost.

Mr. O'KEPPE—Then I move to lay the motion of my colleague (Mr. Coleman) is in order at this time? It takes the bill out of its regular order, and makes it supersede other bills of as much importance as the interests of a giant corporation. I make that point of or ier.

The SPRAKEE—The point of order is not well taken.

Mr. COLEMAN—Mr. Speaker, as I made the motion to go into Committee of the Whole on this bill, I suppose it is in order for me to say a few words in explanation. The bill is necessary for the safety and convenience of a large number of citizens in an important part of the city. The municipal government has requested the Manhattan Gas Light tompany to lay down their pipes in the upper part of the city, now in darkness. In order to enable them to do so, it is necessary that this bill should be passed. The light is needed as much by private individuals for their own convenience and comfort, as by the city authorities for the proper protection of the public, and for the efficient earrying out of the municipal regulations. It is for these reasons that I move to take up the bill now in Committee of the Whole.

Mr. O'KEEPE—I want the House to know, Mr. Speaker, that if this bill is taken up now, it takes precedence of other and more important bills which have been reported for six weeks; while this has been reported but one week. Why sir, should the interests of a rich monopoly be suffered to supersede—

Mr. Blanthorner—I call the gentleman to order. The molion is not debateable, and if he makes a speech I shall claim the privilege to reply.

Mr. O'KEEPE—Well, Mr. Speaker, I will take my seat, we see the search of the sea

Mr. BLATCHFORD—I call the general and it he makes a speech I molion is not debateable, and if he makes a speech I shall claim the privilege to reply.

Mr. O'Kere-Well, Mr. Speaker, I will take my seat, although I should like to make a few remarks, even though the henorable gentleman should reply thereto. I must first, however, move to indefinitely postpone the subject.

Lost.

The motion to go into Committee of the Whole was then carried, and after the reading of the bill, Mr. Baker, of Montgomery, in the chair,

Mr. MAGUIRE moved to amend by reducing the price to be charged for gas to two collars per thousand cubic foet.

Mr. BLATCHFORD hoped the motion would not prevail. The gas could not now be furnished at two dollars, and be charged for gas to two collars per thousand cubic feet.

Mr. SLATCHYOED hoped the motion would not prevail.

The gas could not now be furnished at two dollars, and the amendment would virtually kill the bill. It was the interest of the company to furnish their gas at as lowaprice as possible. They had always evinced a disposition to do so, and would not attempt now to keep up the rates beyond a fair and equitable profit.

Kr. WATREBURY-I hope, sir, the amendment will prevail. I ask what the Manhattan Gas Company's shares are now seeling at? It is a huge monopoly, and under the saug little air angient now proposed, the company will realize some $300,000. The gas company, it is well known, subject the persons who use their gas, to any rules they choose to lay down, and the public should be protected against imposition as far as possible. I hope the motion to reduce the price will prevail.

Mr. Machums stated that he had had a conversation with the President of the Company, who expressed a desire to turnish the public with gas at as cheap a price as possible. He (Mr. M.) thought it could be furnished at $2 per thousand teet. He contended that the residents of New York pay one hundred per cent more for gas than they ought to pay.

Mr. Cocks moved to amend the amendment by adding fifty cents—making the price $2 50.

Mir. A. G. WILLIAMS.—I hope the motion will not prevail. The sole object of the bill is to enable the company, of their own free will, have already reduced the price from $4 30 to $3. They have never raised the price, aithough the cost of all articles used in the manufacture of gas has greatly increased. The object of the company, is to be enabled to extend their pipes through the upper part of the city. He hoped neither amendment would prevail.

Mr. WATERBUKY said the object was to shut out the formation of any other company. This company had always been a huge monopoly, and wished to continue so the company.

formation of any other company. This company had always been a huge monopoly, and wished the continue so. The bill would, he repeated, put $300,000 in the pockets of the company.

Mr. Attran said that every person knows gas can be made for fifty cents per thousand cubic feet. But it must be of an inferior quality. Good gas cannot be furnished under the price at which it is now supplied by the company. Their charges will always be as low as possible, for it is to their interest to reduce the cost in order to extend their business, and compete with the other means of lighting houses, now in use.

Mr. Wager opposed the bill altogether, but if it was to pass, he should favor the amendment, putting the price of gas at $2.

Mr. Coleman said that the matter did not appear to be correctly understood. The Manhattan Gas light Co. could furnish gas from their holder at $1.25, and would be glad to do so. But it must be borne in mind that they have 170 miles of pipe, and the leakage in that distance materially increases the cost. They now furnish the corporation lights at $1.70.

Mr. Knans was opposed to the bill because he considered it a monopoly, and had no faith in the liberality or promises of corporations.

Mr. Warszutus said, the question as to whether the company could afford gas at less than $1 was best met by the fact that the shares of the company were selling now in Wall street, at $130. Shares did not fetch in these days such a price, unless the business was unusually profitable. He should like to hear a reply to the charge that the company make out bills for gas that has never been consumed, and then deprive a citzen of lignithe moment he objects to the imposition.

Mr. A. G. Williams argued to show that the Gas Company was no monopoly, and that it had been of infinite benefit to the public of the city to say whether other companies might lay down pipes along the same streets. It was necessary for the safety of the public of the upper part of the city that the streets should be lighted by gas, and only by the hat be done.

After further remarks from several members,
Mr. Wacza said, that for the purpose of introducing resolution calling upon the company to furnish, unouth, a statement as to the capital of the associato the price they charge for gas, their receipts, eruse, &c.; he would now more that when the commitise it report progress on this bill.

The Late Affray in Stanwix Hall.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

TO THE PUBLIC.—My name having appeared before the public in a very unfavorable light, and my part in the late disgraceful affair which occurred on the morning of the 25th ult, at the Stanwix Hall, in Broadway, having been grossly misrepresented, I submit to the public the following statement, and beg of them to suspendjudgment until my case is investigated:—On Saturday evening last, at half-past eleven o'clock, I was in No. 60 Lispenardstreet. Whilst there, Turner, Hyler and Baker came in, and asked me to take a walk; I declined, and left them in there, and went to the saloon corner of Lispenard street and Broadway. The same party came in there, and asked me to take a walk. I said, No. They then asked me to go across to Lyng's, corner of Canal street and Broadway, and take a drink. I went with them to Lyng's. While there, the same party asked me to take a walk. I refused, and would not go. I was then asked and urged by Baxer and Turner to go, and refused them. Then Hyler says to me, "Paugene, will you not see me home?" I said, "yes, I would." Hyler lives in the upper part of the house where this transpired. After we go to the door, Hyler asked me to go and take a drink before I left him. As I was going in to take a drink a carriage drove up to the door, conzaining Baker, Turner, Van Pelt, and others. As I went in, I saw Poole. He and I were on bad terms, Poole having threatened to beat new a great many times previous to this. Myself and Poole had some words, when my friends came in and took me out of doors. As I was going out, I heard the report of a pistol. I did not go in again, and was not present while a single shot was fred.

Signed, PAIRICK McLAUGLIN. The Late Affray in Stanwix Hall.

Departed this life, suddenly, on Saturday, February 3, Eller, Evens, daughter of the late John Evers.

We dip our pen with sad feelings as it sheds the black ink, the natural symbol of the sorrowing heart-throbs that embarrass the mind, as we proceed upon our mouraful task. In the death of this unocetentatious and pious woman, a Christian family and benevolent community have met with an irreparable loss; a once happy household is left hereft of its most genial companion; its joyous circle is now by this desolation stilled by the sad quieture of sorrowing heart-thoughts, deeply mourning the loss of its pearl of great price. The combination of excellence that marked and adorned this Christian lady through life, was remarkably sustained by an ever faithful example of religious character or peculiar frankness, benevolence, and charity. In all that she did was to be discerved such manners of Christian beauty and kindness, that she seemed rather to be receiving than conferring the most generous and benevolent gifts when others were made the recipients of her kindness—thus seemed ever hving within her mind that love which characterized her affection towards her fellow beings, reflecting such a soul as few present within the writer's limits of observation. Her deportment under the increasing certainty of bodily waste—the decay of death was beautiful indeed, like the rest of her ferovent have beings of body was parted and passed from the di ings of her lone brother and sister. The Lord has most mercifully sustained her under each and all of her many severe trials of bereavement and sorrow through life unto eternity, with the blessed consolation, through each tribulation, that the spirits of the just are made perfect in Christ.
